Den Leader Resources

As you gear up for another great season of Cub Scouting, here are some of the basic documents you'll need to run your Cub Scout dens. We've scanned all of our Cub Scouting resources looking for the most pertinent items, then added some notes of our own. You can quickly see what these documents contain without having to open each one.

Note that these are Adobe Portable Document files (.PDF), which you can print directly or send out for professional printing. Many of these are readily available and can be ordered through your district executive at no charge. In your order, please refer to them by name and number.

Highly Recommended

Program Ideas for Your First Month of Den Meetings, No. 510-232

If you are starting out with brand-new Cub Scouts, "Bobcats All" is the theme, and this little piece is pure gold. It is handy for new den leaders as well, making everything simple and straightforward. (8 pages)

Cub Scout Program Helps for New Den and Pack Leaders, No. 331-118

Perhaps the most essential document for new den leaders, this is their recipe book for three full months of den activity. The online edition covers all types of den plans for November 2009 through January 2010. (32 pages) These are available in a bound edition, for an entire year of program, through ScoutStuff.

2009–2010 Program Planning Insert, No. 13-34409

This is an especially helpful item in the annual Program Planning conference. The core is a planning chart that gives an individual leader the big picture of how den meetings should fit into advancement and the full year's calendar of activities. (8 pages)

Also Helpful

Welcome, New Den Leader, No. 510-231

A very basic primer for the brand-new leader, it contains an exhaustive list of literature and other resources. (6 pages)

Cub Scout Outdoor Program Guidelines, No. 510-631

This booklet gives a comprehensive view of outdoor Cub Scouting and directs the reader to more resources. You'll find that it is an essential part of program planning meetings. (8 pages)

This Is Scouting, No. 511-003

A page promoting the new training video that replaces New Leader Essentials. This is a good handout for use at roundtables and basic training sessions.

So You're a New Pack Committee Member, No. 510-240

Introduction to the role includes a bulleted list of tasks and rewards of volunteering. It's a useful handout for any training activity. Similar treatment is provided in the publications below (4 pages each):
